International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF) underwent an extensive process in developing a Gender Equality Strategy, based on the conceptual framework around the gender-equality continuum as a management tool, ecological model and life course approach. This strategy also includes consideration of disability and diversity issues and includes humanitarian focus. This process also informed the development of a Humanitarian Gender and Inclusion Guidance Note which focuses on gender-responsive programming and the inclusion of persons with disabilities and sexual and gender minorities. These values are in line with the IPPF strategic framework, as well as the overall Humanitarian Strategy.

Each IPPF-led humanitarian response framework includes components to ensure gender-responsive measures are in place. IPPF has currently outsourced the safety and security to a global agency – Drum Cussac, which provides alert on the daily basis for international travellers, including for humanitarian assistance. Currently, this services is limited to Secretariat staff i.e. from Central and Regional Offices, but does not include the Member Association (MA) staff. Based on the experiences and current practices, certain MAs has identified this need and rightly provided insurance cover for the deployed staff e.g. in Indonesia. Personal safety measures are taken in terms of safety gears e.g. life-vest for travelling on boats, essential stocks, and engagement of the local communities as project staff and volunteers to safe-guard the project assets including human resources. Similarly, in Papua New Guinea, humanitarian staff were escorted by the army to the earthquake response site and based on the volatile situation, the project staff had returned multiple times to their Headquarter base. The MAs also keep in touch with the local UN agencies and updates for security advices

Gender-based violence prevention and response

International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF) has integrated global standards on sexual and gender-based violence (SGBV) prevention and response into existing tools and guidance. Knowledge Attitude and Practice surveys have been conducted with select Member Associations in the Pacific and Asia to measure the capacity to prevent and respond to SGBV, with the intention to guide the development of a scale-up program. IPPF has also delivered tailored training on SGBV Fundamentals (based on the WHO established LIVES approach model) with the aim of strengthening Member Association's capacity to prevent and respond to SGBV in humanitarian settings. Sexuality education programmes are implemented in many countries within the Africa Region, with activities conducted in conflict-affected areas in Central African Republic, Democratic Republic of Congo, Mali and Uganda. In the Western Hemisphere region there are a few tangential experiences, for instance, for Zika response, IPPF work with Afro-Colombia organisations to develop culturally appropriate comprehensive sexuality education program for youth. AMAZE is an online sexuality education platform which IPPF has been working to scale in the Latin America and Caribbean region, which could potentially include Sexual and Reproductive Health in Emergencies themes.

Other

In 2018, humanitarian was integrated as a key component of IPPF's global Advocacy Common Agenda (ACA) guiding actions for 2019 - 2022. ACA outlines five thematic high-level changes, which IPPF will be prioritizing across the federation at secretariat and Member Associations levels globally. Humanitarian components are integrated into each thematic area. This will facilitate advocacy for sexual and reproductive health in emergencies in the humanitarian and development space across the Federation

IPPF supported key language amendments to the Human Rights Council Resolution 39/10, adopted in September 2018. The final approved language under the clause, "Preventable maternal mortality and morbidity and human rights in humanitarian settings", connects sexual and reproductive health in humanitarian action with a human rights-based, progressive agenda. Critically, this language is an important tool to hold Governments accountable and can be used as a framework for national and regional advocacy for sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) integration in humanitarian policies and plans. In 2018, IPPF's achievement include six successful policy initiatives and/or legislative changes in support of SRHR in crisis (legally binding) at National, regional/ global level.

Gender equality programming

Memorandum of Understanding with RedR to access surge support was established and a gender-based violence (GBV) advisor has been deployed in the Pacific for 12 months.

International Planned Parenthood Federation's (IPPF) activation system was revised, updated and distributed to regional offices within the Federation in 2018. In addition, the Hub identified the need to update and strengthen IPPF operational policies such as Safety and Security, Safeguarding, Finance and Human Resources and articulated this to senior management. Strengthening these operational policies are included in the humanitarian solutions team work stream and will improve IPPF's ability to respond with agile and quicker systems.

- Gender Equality Orientations conducted for Member Associations in Nepal, Philippines and Sri Lanka.
- Advisors provided technical input to the IPPF gender equality toolkit, serving as a self-assessment tool for Member Associations to identify mechanisms to ensure gender transformative programming. This is another example of integration and mainstreaming of humanitarian tools and strategies into development and stable setting systems.
- Gender, as a theme is a central feature of the Pacific Niu Vaka Strategy straddling the development humanitarian nexus.

Sexual and reproductive health

Eleven of the 14 Member Associations (79 per cent) have put in place activities to institutionalize humanitarian into their organisation and systems. Examples include integration into strategic frameworks, setting up emergency Standard Operating Procedures and/or establishing humanitarian teams from headquarters to field level to be activated during response. This has helped to ensure prioritisation of response work, and ease transition where there has been turn-over of SPRINT (sexual and reproductive health in crisis and post-crisis situations) focal points such as in Afghanistan, Myanmar, Nepal and Sri Lanka. Twelve out of 14 Member Associations now participate in Sexual and Reproductive Health, Health and Protection coordination mechanisms during preparedness and response. In Indonesia and Pakistan, strong coordination at the national level has facilitated the establishment of sub-national coordination mechanisms during response.

Other

In 2018, International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF) continued to be an active member of the Inter-agency Working Group on Reproductive Health in Crises (IAWG); on the steering committee, present in all Sub-Working Groups and co-chair two Sub-working groups: gender-based violence (GBV) and lesbian, gay, bisexual, intersex, trans and queer (LGBITQ).

- In 2018, IPPF hosted webinars highlighting lessons learned on GBV and LGBITQ integration in humanitarian settings, reviewed global resources for Maternal Neonatal Health (MNH) guidance, and acted as a knowledge management hub and facilitator for key actors globally.
- Provision of technical support to the UN Population Fund-led Reproductive Health Kit revision to complement the updated Inter-agency Field Manual 2019.
- As a member of the sub-working group on GBV, provided technical input to GBV (Minimum Guidelines and GBV Handbook) to bridge information gaps and duplication between IAWG GBV and GBV Area Of Responsibility.
- On behalf of IAWG, IPPF led the launch of the revised Minimal Initial Service Package during the Global Protection Cluster consultation in Bangkok, and the revised Inter-agency Field Manual during Asia-Pacific Partnership Week in Bangkok in December 2018.
- Co-developed the dissemination strategy for Inter-agency Field Manual and Minimum Initial Services Package launches in Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Geneva.

Other

The management and organisation of International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF) humanitarian work has progressed in 2018 with maintenance of leadership and advisory capacity in the Bangkok and Fiji humanitarian hubs, recruitment of additional program adviser capacity in Fiji and Bangkok and gender-based violence capacity in Fiji. Links to IPPF Central Office (CO) teams including the Technical team and Resource Mobilisation and New Business Development teams has been strengthened. The Hub supports capacity building of regional humanitarian focal persons and teams in each of the six IPPF Regional Offices (ROs). Key strategies along with high technical capacities have guided the federation and priority countries on the new journey of mainstreaming humanitarian into the federation's work moving away from the "project model".

In 2018, International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF) business development team was created and led a number of large, successful bids targeting fragile countries and contexts. In 2019, the business development team will continue to invest in IPPF income generation capabilities for both humanitarian and development donors, including building a bid pipeline for humanitarian funding and funding in fragile contexts.

November 2018, IPPF submitted 2 proposals to Global Affairs Canada for the regional Venezuela crisis which included targeted gender-based violence prevention and response activities in accordance with the Inter-agency Standing Committee guidelines. IPPF and Member Associations carried out needs assessments, incorporating tools and methodologies to analyse gender inequality and inform the design of gender sensitive responses. The targets and indicators have been designed with a gender sensitive lens. A bid for advancing gender equality strategies, with emphasis on fragile settings and preventing and responding to gender-based violence was submitted to the European Commission for four countries in Africa region (Burkina Faso, Cameroon, Chad and Democratic Republic of the Congo). Throughout 2018 IPPF's Humanitarian Hub continuously worked in tandem with regional humanitarian leads and Member Associations to facilitate mainstreaming of humanitarian across the Federation. This partnership has strengthened humanitarian capacity, and helped enable the Federation to secure additional humanitarian funding in Latin America (Venezuela and Colombia), Arab World (Yemen, Lebanon, Palestine) and in Africa (Cameroon, Burkina Faso, Burundi, Uganda and Togo). AUD 6.8 million of new humanitarian funding was confirmed in 2018.

Based on the review by the Humanitarian Hub with the Central and Regional Offices, there is an imperative need felt for a reserve pool of funding to be available at the IPPF Central and Regional Offices to support of un-anticipated crisis for the Member Associations to respond timely and effectively. Accordingly, advocacy with the Regional Offices is underway for mainstreaming a humanitarian component into their core Annual Program Budgeting (APB) for such contingency funds. Similarly, such funds will be made available through the humanitarian solutions team work stream and in 2018 grants amounting to USD 6.1 million through Regional and Central Office Emergency contingency funds were provided to those Member Associations approaching the Regional Offices for the various crises responses.
