1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.

In 2017 Oxfam created a baseline for its work with Women’s Rights Organisations (WRO). The data shows Oxfam is partnering with 34 WROs in 15 countries on the following topics:
- peace and security,
- gender-based violence,
- women’s empowerment and participation,
- humanitarian preparedness and response,
- disaster risk reduction

2. A. How are you measuring progress toward achieving your commitments? Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☑ Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.
☑ By applying processes/indicators developed to measure WHS commitments specifically.

B. How are you assessing whether progress on your commitments is leading toward change in the direction of the transformation?

A new reporting template was developed which allows Oxfam to collate data more effectively; work linking with its work on Charter for Change and advocacy/campaign teams; (ongoing) confederation wide mapping of WROs. The template will improve monitoring against World Humanitarian Summit (WHS) commitments.

3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☑ Data and analysis
☑ Information management/tools
☑ Other: Discrepancy in definitions/terminology

B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?

Reporting is affected by discrepancy in data received from countries; information management tools developed for current reporting period are not sufficient to report back on all questions; confusion and differences in how WRO is defined in different tracking systems and in different countries.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.

- Completion of the mapping of WRO organizations
- Systematization of terminology
- Database cleaning
- Improved internal reporting process
- Improved coordination with local and national women’s and women-led organizations to give women and girls stronger voices, space and funding for engaging in global agenda on Women Peace & Security (WPS)
- More local and national women activists being supported to participate in global and regional WPS discussions
- Ongoing work of Oxfam’s working group on WPS and strategy development.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?
Facilitate WROs and networks’ access to decision-making at national and international levels; build capacity and support to women to participate in reconciliation and national peace activities (local, national, international).

Increase understanding of inclusive peace processes from women’s perspectives by using New Ways of Working (NWOW) mechanism. Support will be provided on NWOW to lead to adoption of processes that integrate the concerns of women and girls into plans emanating from the NWOW process.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.

- Research report on funding flows to local/national humanitarian actors.
- Secured funding for research on the role of WROs in local humanitarian action, expected to generate good practice examples for the coming year. Research to be informed by interviews with WROs exploring roles and barriers in their work (women, peace and security, DRR, response).

1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.

Since 2017 Real Time Reviews done in every large crisis Oxfam responds to measure compliance with safe programming and proactive measures taken to avoid causing harm, conflict sensitivity, and compliance with humanitarian principles. 7 out of 44 countries reported to have evaluated the impact on civilian protection. Oxfam has 33 protection programmes in 19 countries and about 140 protection staff. Protection outputs were included in strategies of 31 countries. Activities include protection analysis, referrals, information dissemination, safety kit distributions, local advocacy, cash for protection, capacity-building of partners and local authorities, facilitating access to legal aid for victims of gender-based violence (GBV). Oxfam shares its learning widely, through events and reports posted on Alnap or its own Policy & Practice website. The Protection Guidance Note published in February 2017 describes what Oxfam does to bring about greater protection for civilians in conflict and disasters. Oxfam helped write the International Committee of the Red Cross’ (ICRC) Professional Standards for Protection. During 2017 staff in 25 countries were trained; the Protection Team developed an induction course on protection and GBV, but it is not yet mandatory. A training package for humanitarian organizations on managing programme data was launched. Oxfam now has more ways to collect, store, share, transmit, analyze and publish data. With new legal frameworks and increased attention to ethics of data management, humanitarian organizations are adopting new data management policies. But policy alone is not enough; there is a need to practice responsible data management (RDM). The training pack include: principles of RDM, planning processes that can be used, and handling unexpected issues.

2. A. How are you measuring progress toward achieving your commitments? Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☑ Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.

B. How are you assessing whether progress on your commitments is leading toward change in the direction of the transformation?

A centrally-located protection team keeps a strong global overview of protection work across Oxfam, through field deployments, evaluation reports, and listening to others. At a well-established annual Protection Peer Group meeting, staff and partners share experiences and lessons, consolidate efforts, and develop future strategy.

3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☑ Buy-in
☑ Data and analysis
☑ Funding amounts

B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?

While safe programming has largely been mainstreamed, buy-in across Oxfam into the centrality of protection versus the humanitarian imperative to save lives is not uniform. Staff - including management - still lack understanding of protection. The commitment to training all staff in protection also needs to be resourced and prioritized.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.

2018 is likely to be a difficult year; funding constraints will affect the size of the team and its ability to implement strong protection programmes. The team will put additional effort into influencing other technical areas of Oxfam to make protection a central aspect of public health and food security work.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?

- Oxfam is actively promoting and participating in a collective approach to protection, and recommends the ICRC’s Professional Standards for Protection for all non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and human rights groups as an easy reference to the minimum standards
- Oxfam participates in the Global Protection Cluster and Protection Working Groups to build compliance with International Humanitarian Law and refugee law.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.

- The "Protection in Practice project" published in 2017 demystifies protection for other technical areas.
- The UK DEC (Disasters Emergency Committee) publicly praised Oxfam for approaching the Rohingya crisis in Bangladesh as a protection crisis.
- Lighting versus GBV work in Nigeria, Iraq, Uganda, and Bangladesh has made explicit links between protection and public health work.

1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.

Gender-based violence prevention and response

Safe programming/protection mainstreaming is incorporated in country response strategies. It is the responsibility of all humanitarian staff, but protection staff provide additional technical support through specific trainings to different sectors (water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH), Emergency Food Security and Vulnerable Livelihoods (EFSVL)) and continuous advisory support.

In big responses during 2017 such as Lake Chad, Horn of Africa drought, Central African Republic, Haiti, Syria, Bangladesh etc, protection staff carried out the initial risk analysis of activities and actions plans to ensure safe access to WASH, EFSVL, Cash and Protection activities.

Nevertheless, it is important to reinforce the message that safe programming is the responsibility of all, particularly at management level. Facilitating access to GBV survivors though referrals is one of the key activities of protection programming, and this activity is incorporated in all responses.

IHL and IHRL compliance and accountability

Oxfam deploys policy staff into crisis teams to influence local, national and international levels as appropriate. Currently there are seven policy staff engaged in seven emergencies at country level, and 22 engaged at various strategic locations (Geneva, New York, Addis Ababa, Brussels, Washington) supporting the policy work.

2. A. How are you measuring progress toward achieving your commitments? Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.
   ☑ Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.

   B. How are you assessing whether progress on your commitments is leading toward change in the direction of the transformation?
   Oxfam’s Real Time Reviews (done in every large response) include safe programming as a key criterion for measuring programme quality, ensuring any weakness in this area is identified and addressed quickly. Oxfam’s advocacy efforts are reflected in international and national agreements, statements and actions by governments and international bodies, which validate its success levels.

3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.
   ☑ Buy-in
   ☑ Funding amounts
   ☑ Human resources/capacity

   B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?
   Safe programming/protection requires efforts from all programme staff. Where management doesn't prioritize it, responsibility falls 100% to protection staff who only have an advisory role. There is not yet complete understanding of safe programming. Influencing governments and others requires long-term engagement. Oxfam's own coverage is limited by funding availability and sufficient civic space.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.
   Safe programming has been identified by Oxfam humanitarian management as a priority for 2018. Oxfam is shifting its campaigning and advocacy model to include more national actors in its campaigns. Oxfam will support and continue to advocate for the protection of civilians from genocide, war crimes, ethnic cleansing and crimes against humanity.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?
   Despite collective commitments to protection the aid sector lacks sufficient technical expertise in this area to uphold the commitment across other technical areas. It also requires significant attention/funding from donors. As civic space shrinks, Oxfam and other humanitarian actors must fulfill their commitment to decentralization, local leadership and networked influencing wherever possible. Protection of women and girls should remain as an area of focus with more capacity and resources allocated to it.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.
   Research with Water Engineering and Development Centre (Loughborough University) on links between GBV and lighting, and solar lighting distributions or installations in Iraq, Nigeria, Uganda, Bangladesh.

1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.

Oxfam believes every human being is entitled to a life of dignity and opportunity, and it works with others worldwide to make this become a reality. Oxfam contends that protection of civilians is not only their right, but is essential for building long-term peace and stability. Responsibility for the protection of civilians lies with states, and all parties to conflict must abide by International Humanitarian Law (IHL).

In conflict situations Oxfam advocates for states to uphold their obligations to protect civilians, which includes ensuring civilians have access to life-saving food and medical assistance with maintenance of hygiene and public health. Oxfam maintains that humanitarian assistance should be provided by impartial civilian agencies under coordination of the United Nations (UN). Oxfam also maintains that peace keeping troops receive sufficient training on IHL and establish an independent mechanism to monitor IHL compliance.

Oxfam works with national human rights organizations in Yemen, Syria, Jordan, Turkey, South Sudan, Nigeria, the Central African Republic (CAR) and Bangladesh to support and complement efforts to uphold IHL. Oxfam is leading the ‘Stand as One’ regional campaign in Europe calling on world leaders to uphold IHL and support refugees. Oxfam works with 5 International NGOs in Geneva on Global Compacts.

2. A. How are you measuring progress toward achieving your commitments? Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☐ Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.

B. How are you assessing whether progress on your commitments is leading toward change in the direction of the transformation?

Six-monthly monitoring and evaluation reports outline core indicators to track progress on these commitments, in particular the number and quality of partnerships at national level, and progress towards better monitoring and improved compliance with IHL in relevant crises. When needed, Oxfam conducts specific evaluations of large pieces of work.

3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☐ Field conditions, including insecurity and access
☐ IHL and IHRL compliance and accountability

B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?
Recognition of IHL lies with the parties in a conflict, and a deterioration of security situations has led national governments to be less receptive to messaging around it. Global compacts on refugees and migration are not yet adopted, while shifting geopolitics and funding interests can hinder reform processes.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.

Globally, Oxfam will focus on advocacy around Compacts on Refugees and Migrants. Locally, Oxfam will partner more with human and women’s rights organizations and allocate funds for building their capacities to participate in decision-making. Doing so, Oxfam plans to systematically gather information on whether Duty Bearers are complying with their obligations under IH and refugee law; and to deepen the understanding of root causes of humanitarian issues.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?

IHL should not be tacked onto political processes but be intrinsic to them. Safeguarding human rights not only helps protect civilians and reduces suffering, but lends legitimacy to peace processes. Safeguarding lives and livelihoods enhances the prospects for peace and a renewal of political process. All governments must end security or military support, including the transfer of arms, that could facilitate violations of IHL, and declare support for the Code of Conduct regarding the Security Council action against genocide.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.

Premature returns of Nigerian refugees from Cameroon were stopped in June 2017 due to heavy facilitation of Oxfam. Oxfam advocated against the forced movements of refugees, focusing on UN targets. The Tripartite Agreement was reached between Nigeria, Cameroon and the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), countries have committed to facilitate returns while respecting human rights.

1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.

Refugees

Under its Displacement Campaign banner; Oxfam is tackling negative discourse on displacement, to prevent regression of hard-won rights and help ensure actionable commitments are made towards protection of migrants. This is done through advocacy and lobbying in Geneva, New York and London, during in/formal consultations on the Plan of Action of Global Compact on Refugees (GCR). Oxfam advocated for women’s rights, local leadership, and responsibility-sharing to improve the lives of refugees during the development of GCR.

Oxfam also lobbies European Union institutions to ensure that migration policies result in increased support for displaced populations. Oxfam works in Greece, Serbia and Italy delivering legal counseling and protection support (248,790 people helped so far). Oxfam launched campaigns in Cambodia and Philippines, and produced communications’ packages for World Refugee Day, United Nations General Assembly and International Migrants Day.

Cross-border, disaster and climate related displacement

From November to December, as invited by the Special Rapporteur on Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs), Oxfam provided its experience to help craft the communication strategy for commemorating the 20th anniversary of the Guiding Principles (GP20). Oxfam with five non-governmental organization (NGO) partners organized several events during the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) High Commissioner’s Dialogue in December to advocate a joint position on influencing the first draft of the Programme of Action.

- Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.
- By reporting to, or using reports prepared for, UN principal organs, UN governing boards, or other international bodies
- Other: By reporting to, or using reports prepared for, UN principal organs, UN governing boards, or international bodies through joint statements.

B. How are you assessing whether progress on your commitments is leading toward change in the direction of the transformation?

Oxfam, with 14 NGOs, tracks progress of GCR from text provided by UNHCR, and sets up a ‘steering group’ (document criteria for future iterations).

Oxfam tracks actions against The EU Migration Agenda (reinforcing external borders and common asylum policy, developing a new legal migration policy and reducing irregular migration incentives).

3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

- Data and analysis
- Funding amounts
- IHL and IHRL compliance and accountability

B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?
- Lack of funding for projects and lack of capacity in the global team.
- Border restrictions and forced returns increase protection risks for migrants, and Oxfam's influence is not always sufficient.
- Correlating advocacy to impact is not an exact science.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.

Oxfam will launch national campaigns in EU member states to shift public attitudes, beliefs and behaviour of societies towards displaced people, and to influence domestic and regional policies (ie. the Kampala Convention). Our responses will focus on leaving no one behind.

On Global Compacts, Oxfam will aim at creating a responsibility-sharing mechanism for protection of refugees, addressing movement of displaced people by climate-change, and, promoting the profile of and protecting the rights of IDPs.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?

Governments must act by providing aid to tackle the causes of crises that result in forced movements. Political leadership is needed to bring an end to conflicts. Under the displacement campaign, Oxfam demands that Europe ends violations of international law and ensure safety and dignity for people on the move.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.

- At UNHCR's dialogue on Protection Challenges, Oxfam hosted a side-event "Five ambitions for Global Compact on Refugees" (discussion on durable solutions with concrete proposals)
- Oxfam called on the international community, the United Nations Security Council (UNSC) and EU to insist on full implementation of relevant UNSC resolutions on Syria and of the 2012 Geneva Communiqué.

1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.

Tracking gender parity in individual responses is currently very difficult. Oxfam’s Confederation is made up of 17 organizations with separate Human Resource databases. Oxfam GB (the largest affiliate) makes a regular diversity report that reports an average of overseas-based staff as 40% women; this is a significant but by no means total picture. The short contracts and high turnover in response teams further contribute to this being very hard to measure.

Gender equality and women’s empowerment in humanitarian responses is a central objective in Oxfam’s strategic priorities. Oxfam is a key member of the Inter-Agency Standing Committee Gender Reference Group (IASC-GRG) and supported its revisions to the IASG Gender Handbook. It is also an active member of the IASC gender-based violence (GBV) Guidelines Implementation Group.
In 2017, 29 out of 44 country teams which trialed a new reporting format reported working on programmes seeking to transform gender relations, and 34 have strategies for mitigating the risk of GBV. They also calculated transfers of approximately 1,700,000 Euros to support Women's Rights Organisations (WROs’) engagement in humanitarian settings, specifically on peace and security, GBV, empowerment and participation, preparedness and response as well as Disaster Risk Reduction (DRR). These statistics will contribute to a baseline from which to measure improvements in the future.

2. A. How are you measuring progress toward achieving your commitments? Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☑ Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.
☑ By applying processes/indicators developed to measure WHS commitments specifically.

B. How are you assessing whether progress on your commitments is leading toward change in the direction of the transformation?

Oxfam adapted reporting tools to include specific monitoring information on country-specific data and continues to work to adapt and systematize reporting systems. The mapping of Oxfam's current work with WROs will help ensure progress on commitments is leading towards desired outcomes.

3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☑ Data and analysis
☑ Human resources/capacity
☑ Information management/tools

B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?

• Delays in data collection and lack of common data source over-complicates how Oxfam monitors progress.
• The proliferation of siloed gender and GBV-driven initiatives risks having multiple poorly resourced and disjointed efforts.
• More work will be done to improve integration of emergency and development activities to achieve a more cohesive approach.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.

• Further improvement and systemization of internal monitoring tools.
• Determine best ways to collect data related to gender parity in Oxfam's responses from countries.
• Completion of the WRO mapping and analysis which will help determine how Oxfam partners with WROs.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?

• Roll out the revised IASC Gender Handbook, the IASC gender policy and its accountability framework to ensure all humanitarian interventions further gender equality by addressing the strategic, as well as the practical, needs of men, women, boys and girls.
• Engender the Grand Bargain and the Charter for Change.
• More direct funding to WROs and support to grassroot women’s networks and movements.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.

Oxfam implemented a research project in Pakistan, South Sudan, Ethiopia and Dominican Republic to increase the capacity of humanitarian organisations to provide gender sensitive responses. It found that combining leadership training with Gender in Emergencies (GiE) is new and appropriate; training enables the creation of country action plans.

Commit to a new way of working that meets people’s immediate humanitarian needs, while at the same time reducing risk and vulnerability over multiple years through the achievement of collective outcomes. To achieve this, commit to the following: a) Anticipate, Do Not Wait: to invest in risk analysis and to incentivize early action in order to minimize the impact and frequency of known risks and hazards on people. b) Reinforce, Do Not Replace: to support and invest in local, national and regional leadership, capacity strengthening and response systems, avoiding duplicative international mechanisms wherever possible. c) Preserve and retain emergency capacity: to deliver predictable and flexible urgent and life-saving assistance and protection in accordance with humanitarian principles. d) Transcend Humanitarian-Development Divides: work together, toward collective outcomes that ensure humanitarian needs are met, while at the same time reducing risk and vulnerability over multiple years and based on the comparative advantage of a diverse range of actors. The primacy of humanitarian principles will continue to underpin humanitarian action.

1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.

Strengthening national/local leadership and systems

Localization of Aid has been prioritized in Oxfam’s Global Steer for countries’ and regions’ planning for the Financial Year 2018-19. Guidance documents were developed that translate commitments into implications for country-level programming, and internal guidelines to promote the role and work of local actors in communications and media moved into implementation in Quarter 1 (Q1) of 2018.

Oxfam also implemented stand-alone programming to demonstrate how local actors can lead responses in specific contexts (Financial Enablers Project, Empowering Local and National Humanitarian Actors (ELNHA) project) and Oxfam agreed an internal, cross confederation policy, on the improved representation of the work of local partners in communications products.

Cash-based programming

In December 2016, Oxfam endorsed a cash strategy and by January 2018 this had led to the formation of a Cash Team including a Cash Coordinator, Cash Capacity Building Officer, Social Protection Advisor and a team of roving Humanitarian Support Personnel.

Adherence to quality and accountability standards (e.g. CHS, SPHERE)
As a member of the Core Humanitarian Standard (CHS) Alliance Oxfam is committed to promoting quality humanitarian responses. Oxfam started a CHS verification audit carried out by the Humanitarian Quality Assurance Initiative (HQAI) (external auditing body) in January 2018.

People-centered approaches (feedback mechanisms, community engagement, etc)

Annual reporting systems for Oxfam country offices now include localization and cash related indicators to track Oxfam’s progress on the WHS localization and cash commitments. This are to be revised in 2018.

2. A. How are you measuring progress toward achieving your commitments? Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

- ☑ Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.
- ☑ By reporting to, or using reports prepared for, UN principal organs, UN governing boards, or other international bodies
- ☑ Through multi-stakeholder processes or initiatives (e.g. IASC, Grand Bargain, Charter for Change, etc).
- ☑ By applying processes/indicators developed to measure WHS commitments specifically.

2. B. How are you assessing whether progress on your commitments is leading toward change in the direction of the transformation?

Country annual reporting now includes indicators for localisation and cash, and additional mapping of cash work and outcomes at Oxfam global level will take place in 2018. Oxfam's programming is increasingly evaluated using benchmarks related to WHS commitments, designed to gauge to what extent programming meets the commitments.

3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

- ☑ Field conditions, including insecurity and access
- ☑ Information management/tools
- ☑ Other: No standardised data or indicators for CTPs

3. B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?

Internally, Oxfam's size and structure make it challenging to ensure all stakeholders are aware of the commitments and implications. Externally, more analysis is required to understand ways in which localization can help address women's rights in contexts with dominance of men in government and civil society and limited gender awareness.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.

- Help partners call for increased leadership and hold donors to account on funding.
- Campaign for stronger government-led crisis coordination, greater national resource mobilization, and improved DRR policies.
- Implement policy on public communication of the work of local actors.
- Ensure two regions are fully ‘cash ready’; update cash standard operating procedures.
- Ensure all programme staff are trained in the CHS commitments.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?

- Work together on a new humanitarian model giving responsibility and leadership to local people, reinforcing national and local humanitarian responses not replacing them.
- Joint discussion of C4C (Charter for Change) and Grand Bargain commitments with partners and stakeholders at all levels, and between national stakeholders, international nongovernmental organizations (INGOs) and donors to address barriers to improvement.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.

- Piloting Humanitarian Capacity Development Fund and the Humanitarian Response Grant Facility with local and national humanitarian actors (LNHAs).
- Convening local NGOs in Kasai Democratic Republic of Congo as central to Oxfam's response.
- Co-lead Cash Working Groups; piloting cash and localization in Bangladesh, Uganda.
- Starting verification with HQAI on CHS compliance in Ethiopia, Uganda, Bangladesh.

1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.
To ensure programs are informed by hazard risk, and enable flexible response, Oxfam has:

- Developed a global DRR strategy providing guidance on including risk analysis in context analysis and programme design.
- Started to use Oxfam’s existing Vulnerability and Risks Assessment (VRA) tool in humanitarian contexts. Staff and partners were trained in five countries where the VRA has been successfully implemented.
- Worked on the integration of capacity and vulnerability analysis within humanitarian needs assessment.
- Encouraged the integration of grant facility mechanisms within DRR programmes to allow local partners to deliver flexible small-scale responses.

The “Review of Oxfam’s Disaster Risk Reduction Work & Early Action on El Niño”, was released in February 2017. Following its conclusions on Oxfam’s response timeliness, DRR and Early Action contribution to effectiveness and impact, the organization launched a review of its preparedness and early action procedures in order to improve timely response.

The actions taken to better prepare for La Niña response in 2016 included: monitoring the likelihood of La Niña; contributing to El Niño-La Niña Standard Operating Procedures with the Inter Agency Standing Committee (IASC); advocating for preparedness with the paper “A preventable crises El Niño and La Niña events need earlier responses and a renewed focus on prevention”.

2. A. How are you measuring progress toward achieving your commitments? Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☐ Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.

B. How are you assessing whether progress on your commitments is leading toward change in the direction of the transformation?

Oxfam is collecting evidence of where it has helped communities and institutions better prepare and respond to disasters. It has documented a strong positive correlation between its DRR efforts and reduced vulnerability in India with communities and in Central America with local authorities. Evidence is currently being gathered in Bangladesh.

3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☐ Funding amounts
☐ Funding modalities (earmarking, priorities, yearly agreements, risk aversion measures)
☐ Joined-up humanitarian-development analysis, planning, funding and/or response

B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?

DRR creates capacity and reduces vulnerabilities but it is underfunded in comparison with post-disaster funding. Over 20 years funding for DRR accounts for just 0.4% of total amount spent on aid. Funding sources should be flexible to allow carrying work before crises, and particularly in slow-onset crises to prevent catastrophes.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.

To ensure programmes are informed by hazard risk, Oxfam will:

- Roll out DRR global strategy in all countries and promote a strong commitment to Early Warning - Early Action.
- Release Organizational and Programme standards, including a Monitoring Evaluation Accountability Learning standard to monitor strategy implementation.
- Use the Vulnerability and Risk Assessment (VRA) tool in new countries including the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC), Burundi, Tanzania.
- Pursue and systematize evaluation work on DRR Impact evidence.
- Advocate for DRR added value and for long-term funding in DRR.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?

- Invest in long-term risk reduction programmes.
- Change the funding mechanisms or create specific ones for early action/no regrets actions.
- Increase use and promotion of global Standard Operating Procedures for early action.
- Broaden the sample of Forecast Based Funding pilots.
- Advocate for a community approach on DRR.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.

- Contributed to Linking Preparedness Response Resilience research (START consortium).
- Integrated Grant Facility mechanisms in DRR programmes in three countries in 2017.

1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.

Addressing blockages/challenges to direct investments at the national/local level

Oxfam recognizes that this funding pattern does not reflect the organization it wishes to be, but there is high-level support for internal change, making critical exploration of how Oxfam can contribute more to local non-governmental organization/civil society organization (NGO/CSO) core costs and invest more in capacity-building (both to take place in 2018).

Direct funding to national/local actors

In 2017 Oxfam developed tools to obtain data on the percentage of funding transferred to local actors, at affiliate and country level. Data was obtained for FY 15-16 (affiliate level) and FY 16-17 (country level), enhancing organization-wide insight on the scale of change required for Oxfam to meet its funding to local NGOs/CSOs commitment.

Based on the available data, percentage spend transferred to local and national partners in FY 15-16 was approximately 16%. Additionally, based on data collected from countries in FY 16-17, those reporting greatest amount of humanitarian spend in FY 16-17 were often also the countries with lowest percentage funding going to local actors.

In order to significantly turn around Oxfam’s global average across all countries, most focus needs to be on countries with high levels of annual humanitarian spend, which, in majority of cases, also present highly complex and challenging programming contexts (e.g. Yemen, Central African Republic (CAR), Syria, Iraq).

2. A. How are you measuring progress toward achieving your commitments? Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

- ☑ Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.
- ☑ Through multi-stakeholder processes or initiatives (e.g. IASC, Grand Bargain, Charter for Change, etc).
3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☑ Funding modalities (earmarking, priorities, yearly agreements, risk aversion measures)
☑ Institutional/Internal constraints
☑ Joined-up humanitarian-development analysis, planning, funding and/or response

B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?

Oxfam must have robust partnerships with local/national NGOs/CSOs in place pre-emergency, requiring joined up development-humanitarian planning & priority-setting, proposal development, and funding, as well as harmonized policies on core cost contributions. The pace of change across a large and complex organizational structure is slower than anticipated.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.

Harmonization of policies across the confederation which relate to contributions to partner core costs is set to take place in 2018. Adaptation of Oxfam affiliates’ finance information systems to be able to track the percentage of Oxfam’s humanitarian funding to local NGOs for capacity building is included in systems change requests for 2018.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?

- Increased and continuous joint advocacy by INGOs and UN agencies to donors on including allowances for adequate contributions to partners’ core administrative costs.
- Engage jointly with platforms/forums of local organizations before and during responses to discuss appropriate measures for fair compensation for the loss of their best local staff.
- Coordinate capacity development funding for local organizations to use as they see fit enabling them to make efficient investments for themselves, using local resources.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.

In Cox’s Bazaar, Oxfam is proposing a discussion with Charter for Change signatories to engage with the Local Civil Society Organization forum regarding compensation for losing staff to international organisations. Oxfam has supported the platform in organising events (in Cox’s Bazaar and Dhaka) to monitor Grand Bargain commitments in the response.

1. Highlight the concrete actions taken between 1 January – 31 December 2017 to implement the commitments which contribute to achieving this transformation. Be as specific as possible and include any relevant data/figures.

The Global Humanitarian Assistance (GHA) classification was further developed by the Grand Bargain workstream #2, leading to an adapted categorization of local humanitarian actors and finalized end 2017. This categorization is now being used internally in Oxfam’s confederation-wide partnership classification, and is included in the steer for adaptations to information systems at affiliate level. This categorization is embedded in interim solutions to data collection used in 2017. Two Oxfam affiliates (Oxfam Novib and Oxfam US) became members of the International Aid Transparency Initiative (IATI) Member Assembly in 2017, showing a clear commitment on the part of Oxfam to transparency and open data in both development and humanitarian sectors. Oxfam is not yet structurally able to publish the funding going to local actors to the GHA/IATI standard, however has incorporated the requirements in the systems adaptations’ requests across all affiliates. To date Oxfam GB and Oxfam NL, and to some degree Oxfam DK and Oxfam US, are substantially publishing to the IATI registry. An effort to streamline and harmonize capacity assessments across the Oxfam confederation began in Q1 2018, as did joint work on harmonizing due diligence requirements for partners with START, NEAR, Humemtum and TechSoup.

2. A. How are you measuring progress toward achieving your commitments? Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☐ Through existing, internal systems or frameworks for monitoring, reporting and/or evaluation.
☐ By applying processes/indicators developed to measure WHS commitments specifically.

B. How are you assessing whether progress on your commitments is leading toward change in the direction of the transformation?

Using the renewed GHA/GB (Grand Bargain) classification system in Oxfam’s interim data collection tools is allowing the confederation to monitor, annually, whether local actors increasingly have access to Oxfam facilitated humanitarian funding, thereby increasing their resource base for humanitarian action. The improved reporting should also improve efficiency and transparency within Oxfam.

3. A. Please select no more than 3 key challenges faced in implementing the commitments related to this transformation. Only the categories selected by the organisation will be seen below.

☑ Information management/tools
☑ Multi-stakeholder coordination

B. How are these challenges impacting achievement of this transformation?

The multi-stakeholder consultations required under the Grand Bargain Localization workstream to arrive at the finalized classification was a lengthy yet important process. Without clarity on the definitions, final requirements for the internal systems adaptations could not be set out.

4. Highlight actions planned for 2018 to advance implementation of your commitments in order to achieve this transformation.

- Embedding of the new classification system in Oxfam affiliate information systems, and generating more clarity on where increased funding to local actors is in line with Oxfam steer and ambitions.
- Publishing Oxfam data on funding to local actors to contribute to sector transparency.
- Further harmonization of assessment tools and reporting formats within the Oxfam confederation and with other NGOs.

5. What steps or actions are needed to make collective progress to achieve this transformation?

Harmonization of GHA/GB data requirements with IATI humanitarian scope, or vice versa, to ensure that supporting Oxfam to become IATI compliant aligns with the humanitarian transparency requirements committed to under the Grand Bargain.

6. List any good practice or examples of innovation undertaken individually or in cooperation with others to advance this transformation.

Collaboration with START, NEAR, Humermtum and TechSoup to harmonize due diligence requirements imposed by donors and streamline asks from local partners.
